Shake-up spells end for district council

COUNCILLORS have been voting this week on proposals which will mean the abolition of Forest Heath District Council.

Newmarket Town Council has backed the proposal for just two main councils for the whole of Suffolk.

And members of Forest Heath District Council have been recommended to support the plan, which would mean replacing the existing seven districts and boroughs as well as the county council.

Leaders and chief executives of the seven "middle-tier" councils have already backed the idea of councils for West Suffolk and East Suffolk. But the county council favours a unitary authority covering the whole county.

The Boundary Committee intends to close its first round of consultation on the shake-up tomorrow and Forest Heath was due to hold a special council meeting last night to vote on the issue.

Forest Heath, which includes Newmarket and Mildenhall, would be absorbed into the new West Suffolk authority together with neighbouring St Edmundsbury which includes Haverhill.

Although the district council bosses have suggested that consideration should be given to keeping things as they are, the Boundary Committee has indicated that "no change" is not an option.

council could start next year and mergers could take up to two years.

A new council – whether for West Suffolk or the whole county – would take on the existing functions of the districts and boroughs which include rubbish collection and recycling as well as planning.

County council functions including roads, education and social services would also be passed to the new council.

The Boundary Committee is due to consider the response from the councils and the public before publishing its recommendations in July.

There will follow a further consultation period until September.

Newmarket Town Council held a special meeting on Saturday to consider its views on the shake-up.

The mayor of Newmarket, Cllr Bill Burch, said: "The town council has agreed to back the plans for two main councils – East and West Suffolk. We had to pick one of the options and this will be it.

"To be honest we don't know much about the plans as yet. We will know more after the meetings this week.

"We felt overall that the plan which would cause least disruption was that of the East and West Suffolk Councils. There are already some services that operate this way and therefore will not be as disruptive."

Kings and queens of the castle

A BOUNCING bonanza proved popular for children when four inflatable castles were set up in a leisure centre as a holiday activity.

Bouncy castles from Forest Heath leisure centres in Newmarket and Brandon were brought to Mildenhall's Dome centre where two sessions were held for children in two age groups.

A Tumblers session for under fives attracted nearly 60 and there were more than 60 for the session for five to 11s which followed.

Karl Holmes, duty officer at The Dome, said: "It was the first time that we brought all the inflatables from the district's leisure centres together and it was very popular.

"It's something we will look at doing again. It went down a treat."

Horses turfed out of bluebell wood

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

HORSES have been banned from a community wood after they churned up paths and uprooted bluebells.

The 11-acre wood at Reach was created more than 10 years ago when the Woodland Trust bought the land from Cambridgeshire County Council and villagers helped to plant the trees.

But during the past year the wood has been increasingly used by horse riders – even though a bridle path runs alongside it.

Now the Woodland Trust has put up notices saying: "Horse-riding is not permitted in this wood" and could put up fences to keep horses out.

The issue was raised at a recent parish council meeting by Reach resident Bill Estall, who walks his dog there every morning.

He said: "They cut up the turf with their hoofs and have started jumping over the logs which have been put there as benches. This has made us rather angry.

"It wasn't designed for horses and there are plenty of other places they can go around the village."

Mr Estall, 82, who has lived in the village for 40 years, said: "It's a lovely place. We're very lucky to have it."

He said bluebells had been planted using cash left in a legacy for the wood.

Jonathan Plowe, the Woodland Trust's manager for Cambridgeshire, said: "We don't have an issue with horses. But people and horses don't mix in the same area.

"It can be intimidating – particularly for the more elderly people – if they are confronted by a horse while they are out for a walk.

"Horses make such a mess of the paths and that's not good for people – particularly those who may not be that steady on their legs.

"All access to the woods is permissive and there is actually no public right of way. It allows us to control it, but it is well used by the local population."

Since the wood has become established it has become a haven for wildlife, including two species of deer.

He said the parish council was becoming increasingly involved in the management of the wood.

Band to play

A BAND concert will raise money for Fordham Charity Group.

Wicken Coronation Band will play at Victoria Hall, Fordham, on Friday, April 25.

The band has a new conductor, Tim Hammond, who is based at Bassingbourn Barracks and previously played with the Grimethorpe Colliery Band and the Black Dyke Mills Band.

Wicken Band has helped the Fordham group raise more than £15,000 for charity.

Tickets, price £5, are available from DN Jenkins TV shop in Fordham, from Soham Books in High Street, Soham, or by calling (01638) 720674.

Skin condition

PSORIASIS sufferers can take part in an open meeting of the Suffolk local group of the Psoriasis Association on Saturday.

Dr Sue Handfield-Jones, consultant dermatologist at West Suffolk Hospital, will talk about the skin condition and its treatment.

The meeting will be held at the Cathedral Centre, Bury St Edmunds between 2-4pm and is open to anyone who has psoriasis or cares for someone with the condition.

Police post

A NEW assistant chief constable has been appointed by Suffolk Police Authority.

Gary Kitching will begin his new job in mid-May.

Prior to his appointment, he was temporary assistant chief constable for Hertfordshire Constabulary.

Chief Supt Kitching said: "Suffolk Constabulary's people have an outstanding reputation and I consider myself very lucky to be selected as their assistant chief constable.

"I very much look forward to joining the Suffolk policing team and working with them to keep the county safe."

Bowls taster

A BOWLS club is holding an open day in a bid to attract more members of all ages.

Newmarket Avenue Bowls Club is staging the open day on Sunday, April 20, from noon-4.30pm, when non-members can try their hand at the sport.

Tony Taylor, the club secretary, said: "Bowls is a wonderful way to improve your general health and keep you fit. It is not only a sport. You can also enjoy a very active social life."

Five qualified coaches will be running Thursday morning running instruction courses from 11am-noon from Thursday, May 1 to Friday, September 12.

For more details contact Mr Taylor (01638) 667359.

Plaque to mark village station

BURWELL residents will remember the days when the village had its own railway station later this month.

A plaque will be unveiled on the site of Burwell Railway station entrance on Sunday, April 27, at 3pm by the local history society in an attempt to make sure the station is not forgotten.

Since the station was demolished in the 1960s the site has been a box and card-board factory and is now a modern housing estate.

Pat Kilbey, a member of the special projects committee organising the event, said: "We feel this is an important part of our village history."

"Many of the older people remember the station and are sorry it is gone, but some of the children and newcomers to the village have no idea we ever had a railway station here."

An exhibition of pictures, models and memorabilia from the station will be on display.

This will be the sixth plaque in a series to be placed around Burwell in an effort to mark sites of particular historical interest.

Slimmers lose but charity is a winner

SLIMMERS are helping support a charity while they shed the pounds.

New members at Curves Fitness Studio, in Mill Street, Mildenhall, donated food to charity rather than pay a joining fee last month. Generous existing members also took part in the charity food drive helping to amass an astonishing 193 kilos of food.

Sue Whiting, owner of the studio, said: "It will hopefully make quite a bit of difference. All the food will now be made up into hampers and given to a whole range of people who need help by the Mildenhall and Bury St Edmund's based Gatehouse Charity."

"We had 12 new members in March and they have all paid in food, but also all our current members made donations too."

"I am very proud of our members. They have done really well and we will definitely be holding it as an annual event now."

For more information on the club call (01638) 515908.

Making life better

A COMMUNITY group is asking residents in Mildenhall what is needed to make life better in their area.

Mildenhall Community Partnership is conducting a survey in the town to discover what people feel could be done to improve their quality of life. The data collected will be used to apply for lottery funding to help set up activities for young people, the elderly and encourage volunteering in the area.

Speed networking

SPEED dating is a well-known phenomenon for singletons, but now the business community in Newmarket is taking up the idea. The Newmarket Business Association is organising a speed networking event at the Champions Gallery, Rowley Mile Racecourse on April 23 from 5.30pm to 8.30pm. It will work in the same way as speed dating with each meeting lasting just three minutes, enabling every attendee to meet new contacts. For more information visit newmarket@thebestof.co.uk

Helping open doors

A CHARITY concert will be held on Saturday, April 19, to raise funds for Newmarket Open Door.

The Ashton Singers will present a programme of spring music at St Martin's Church, Exning, from 7.30pm.

The charity runs supported housing for single and vulnerable people aged 16 to 30.

Tickets, priced £5, are available on the door or by calling (01638) 600699.

Plan for homes

COUNCILLORS have given permission for 10 new homes in Kennett.

East Cambridgeshire District Council's planning committee gave approval for the scheme from Hastoe Housing Association. The development will comprise four one-bedroom flats, four two-bedroom houses and two three-bedroom houses at land adjacent to 31 Dane Hill Road.

Call for probe into 'outrageous' salary

BY Laura Jean Morris

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

CALLS have been made for an investigation into the "outrageous salary" given to a council's new chief executive.

Labour councillors want the district auditor to look into the £220,000 salary given to Andrea Hill, who joins Suffolk County Council this month.

Mrs Hill, who previously headed Bedfordshire County Council, is being paid £70,000 more than the person she replaces, Mike More. He is moving to Westminster City Council.

The Labour group say they have prepared a detailed submission for the auditor, setting out "serious" breaches of rules in the run-up to a council meeting two weeks ago which approved Mrs Hill's appointment.

They say the Tory-led council failed to achieve "best value" for taxpayers as a result of the decision, especially as the future of the council is in doubt. The council is consulting on plans to run all local government services in the county, effectively creating a new authority.

Cllr Julian Swainson, leader of the Labour group, said: "At a time when it is entirely possible the council will be wound up, I would question the need to appoint a new chief executive at all."

"There are several very capable senior directors of services who could manage until a decision over the council's future has been made without the need to appoint a very expensive new chief executive."

Cllr Kevan Lim, deputy leader of the Labour group, said: "There is massive public concern about how the council agreed this outrageous salary."

"We believe this salary was a direct consequence of the naivety of the council and shows a blatant disregard for the council's own rules."

At the time of announcing Mrs Hill's salary, a council spokesman said: "We had to find someone capable of running a large, complex organisation providing vital services to 700,000 people and some of the most vulnerable in our communities. Talent like that is rare and does not come cheaply."

"We spend around £1 billion a year on behalf of the people of Suffolk and employ 27,000 people."

"You would not leave a business that size without a CEO. If we had not appointed a chief executive and services began to suffer, people would be right to complain."

Cllr Lim said: "The district auditor will decide whether or not to investigate. In rare cases the auditor can recommend the Audit Commission to place fines on an authority."

Yobs hit play equipment

POLICE are urging anyone who may have seen a group of five youths vandalising play equipment to come forward.

The incident occurred at the Chapel Street playground, Exning on Sunday between 2.40pm and 2.45pm.

The youths are described as male, white and wearing hooded tops and jeans with trainers.

Anyone with information should contact Pc Lucy Holman on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Waste facility gets £102m cash boost

MORE than £102 million has been given to Suffolk County Council to help build a new waste treatment facility.

Funding for a scheme to treat the waste that is left over after recycling and composting has been agreed by Defra this week.

The subsidy will be used to pay half the cost of building the new facility.

Bryn Griffiths, assistant director for environment, said: "I am pleased that Suffolk has been given such a substantial subsidy to build the waste treatment facility."

"Now that the funding has been agreed, the next stage is to ask contractors to signal their interest in submitting tenders for building and operating the facility.

"Suffolk needs to find a solution to deal with waste that is left over after recycling and composting. We have announced that Energy from Waste is our preferred solution for Suffolk, but we are open-minded about other technologies if a tender comes forward with an alternative suitable technology."

The Energy from Waste scheme would see grey bin rubbish burned to create electricity.

Village sub-post office under closure threat

BY John Goode
Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

A TINY village is set to lose one of its last remaining facilities if plans to axe sub-post offices go ahead.

Pamela Bowers and her husband Eric, who have run the post office at Cowlinge for 30 years, have now thrown their weight behind a campaign launched by our sister paper, the Cambridge News, to save village post offices.

But Mrs Bowers said their business had dropped dramatically in recent years with pensions being paid direct into people's bank accounts and stamps being more widely available.

The couple have run the business just as a post office opening four days a week. The only other facility in the village, which has a population of less than 300, is the pub.

"I shall be very sad if we have to close down," said Mrs Bowers, 70.

"We came here after my husband retired after 25 years' service in the Navy. Things have changed an awful lot since we first came here.

"Then we knew everyone who came through the door and you knew what time people would come to get their pensions. Now there are young families in the village who are out to work all day.

"I feel particularly sorry for families who have a post office and a shop."

Mrs Bowers said that if the closure went ahead the couple, who live on the premises, would convert the post office into living accommodation.

"We love it here," she said. "We would never move."

The Cowlinge post office is one of eight in West

Suffolk – including Exning Road, Newmarket; Barton Mills and Chalkstone in Haverhill – which have been earmarked for closure.

They are among nearly 70 in Suffolk and Norfolk which are facing closure and there are fears that a similar number could be axed in Cambridgeshire when closure proposals in the county are announced in July.

Last month, the Cambridge News launched a campaign to Save Our Post Offices and readers can sign the petition on the website www.cambridge-news.co.uk

The campaign aims to:

■ Save all post offices in Mid-Anglia from closure where there is a demonstrable public need for them to be retained

■ Get the Government to provide financial support to ensure post offices remain open in villages and small towns, thereby safeguarding rural life and local economies.

Postmasters and postmistresses have joined ranks with MPs to back the campaign to stop the planned closures and readers are asked to show their support by signing the petition.

Race is on for overseas push

A NEW member of the marketing team at Newmarket-based racehorse auctioneers Tattersalls will help to develop overseas markets.

Barbara FitzGerald has joined the business from 6C Racing, where she was a director.

Edmond Mahony, Tattersalls chairman, said: "Barbara brings a wealth of international experience to this new role and her appointment underlines the commitment at Tattersalls to developing and expanding our vitally important overseas markets. In addition to her detailed knowledge of the racing and bloodstock world, Barbara also speaks five languages which is enormously beneficial in such a global business and she will be a hugely important point of contact for many of our overseas clients."

Law change

POLICE will no longer deal with stray or lost dogs from Sunday, when new national regulations take effect.

Suffolk police have warned that strays are now the responsibility of local councils – police officers or civilian staff at police stations will not get involved.

But the police will still investigate complaints about dangerous dogs, dogs worrying livestock, theft of dogs and other illegal activities involving dogs such as hare coursing.

Supt Mike Shields, of Suffolk police, said the change of responsibility would free up staff in police stations for other duties.

Net result

BUSINESS leaders can get to know each other better at a speed networking evening organised by Newmarket Business Association (NBA).

The event, in the Champions' gallery at Newmarket's NatWest Rowley Mile racecourse, is a spin-off from NBA's networking breakfasts.

To book a place on the session – on Wednesday, April 23 from 5.30pm – email jo@memltd.com.

Oxfam sticks with fundraising idea

USED stamps are helping to raise money for an international charity's work.

The Oxfam shop in Wellington Street, Newmarket, has just joined a group of more than 50 in the organisation's chain of 750 shops which specialise in stamps.

As well as stamps – including collections – the shop accepts coins, collectable bank notes, medals and other memorabilia. Volunteers Francis Reeks, Peter Hofton and Bob King help to sort through the stamps and other collectables donated at the shop. Money raised will help improve sanitation and water supplies in the Third World.

Rhona Brook, the recently-appointed shop leader, said: "Last year Oxfam's stamp specialists raised over £165,000 between them and another £40,000 from coins.

"We are sure that the Newmarket shop can add to these totals. All we need are more donations. Stamp collecting is as popular as ever and now that most business post is franked and letters are replaced by email, it is important that used stamps do not go to waste."

Mr Reeks said: "Saving stamps is easy and should be part of everyone's recycling routine. Unlike newspaper or glass, they take up little room and can be handed in at any Oxfam shop for forwarding to us at Newmarket.

"Collectors are most welcome too in the Wellington Street shop. Collecting coins, notes or stamps is truly instructive, covering history, geography and many special interest topics and can be enjoyed by young and old alike."

The Oxfam shop is the town's longest-running charity shop and has raised more than £500,000 since it opened 20 years ago.

Ban placed on alfresco pizzas

A PIZZA restaurant has been told it cannot put tables on the pavement.

Pizza Express wanted to create a continental cafe-style atmosphere in High Street, Newmarket, at the junction with Sun Lane.

But councillors said the five tables, which could provide seating for up to 20 people, would cause an obstruction.

Suffolk County Council objected to the idea, but Newmarket Town Council had no objection if the number of seats was reduced to 16.

The final decision rested with Forest Heath District Council – and its community safety co-ordinator said the extra tables could add to street drinking and problems associated with having glasses and bottles in the street.

Councillors agreed with the assessment and rejected the application.

Former pub to be restaurant

A FORMER pub can be converted into a Chinese restaurant.

People living near the building in Oxford Street, Exning, near Newmarket, objected on the grounds of smell, disturbance and possible parking problems.

The parish council said it did not oppose the plan as long as the restaurant was properly managed to prevent such problems.

The building has not been used as a pub for more than 10 years – it was being used as a house.

Forest Heath District Council's planning committee approved the scheme, but limited opening hours to 7pm to 11pm and said there should be no takeaway trade.

Persistent thief spared jail term

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

School burglar gets community sentence

A SERIAL burglar who broke into a school and stole £2 has avoided an immediate jail term.

Stephen Ellis, 37, was given a 51-week sentence, suspended for two years, after he admitted three burglaries and asked for another 19 to be taken into consideration.

Ellis, whose previous record includes nearly 30 burglaries, confessed to the police after his DNA was identified from blood he left on broken glass at Lakenheath Primary School.

He even agreed to accompany officers on a drive around west Suffolk to show them other places he had burgled.

Magistrate David Dean, passing sentence at Bury St Edmunds court, told Ellis he had a "dreadful" record.

But Mr Dean said: "We believe there is a greater chance of protecting the public by putting you on this long community stretch than by putting you in prison."

Ellis, of Heatherset Way, Red Lodge, was also made the subject of a two-year community order including 250 hours of unpaid community work, which has to be completed in a year, and probation service supervision for two years.

In addition, he was ordered to pay compensation of £1,832.50 – half the total amount of cash he stole and damage he caused during the burglary spree between September and January.

Raids in Gazeley, near Newmarket, Lakenheath,

Barton Mills and Clare were among the offences he asked to be considered.

Sarah-Jane Atkins, prosecuting, said he was caught after the burglary at Lakenheath Primary School on the night of December 17 when he caused £500 damage, but stole just £2.

David Stewart, mitigating, said Ellis was the paid carer for his partner, Tania, who is paralysed from the waist down as the result of an accident seven years ago.

"He expresses his remorse and hangs his head in shame," said Mr Stewart.

Ellis, who was released from a previous jail sentence in 2006, returned to burglary after getting into debt through internet gambling, Mr Stewart added.

'Wily ways' see matters slip by Sir, I find the recent advertisement and Cllr Jaggard's comment "bolt from the blue" rather extraordinary. Forest Heath residents are suddenly faced with an advertisement asking for us to comment on whether we would like a unitary authority (for the whole of Suffolk - run from Ipswich); two unitary councils (Greater Ipswich and the rest of Suffolk; two unitary councils (east and west Suffolk); three unitary councils (east and west and Greater Ipswich); stay as we are (district and county council). In the advertisement Forest Heath residents were given until April 7 to respond. Given that Cllr Jaggard, leader of the council, appeared to find this major move a bolt from the blue why are we being asked to respond in such a short manner, by Forest Heath? Is this not something that we should be allowed to think and consider and then vote on?

An advertisement does not give the residents of Forest Heath either time to respond or cover the whole population of the area. Has anybody had a letter from Forest Heath asking for their opinions? I haven't.

This should be a vote by the people not something that is decided upon by either Suffolk County Council, Cllr Jaggard or Forest Heath.

We wonder why people have become increasingly disillusioned with politicians, be they district, county or national. Their wily ways of trying to slip matters through without consultation with the people who pay their wages is disgraceful.

Is supporting an application now considered an offence?

Sir, We now have the ombudsman's report on a complaint on how a planning matter was handled in 2006. It has only taken 15 months to assemble 2,000 words. I wish to make the following comments. Getting the council to give £1,000 each to two identical complaints can't be right. In this report, a public document, I am referred to as Cllr Pyke and I seem to have committed an offence, and I quote: "I was among the most vocal in support of the application". Is this now an offence? To be in support of an application that would reduce traffic in our very dangerous road. Oh, I'm sorry, I forgot. Democracy is being phased out, never mind. The Ombudsman says we must work to the policy on planning. Oh dear, didn't anybody tell him our planning policy 1995 expired eight years ago? Must stop worrying about such small details, let's concentrate on our customers. My customers are my ward. The US Air Force asked our council for not 100 more homes but 440 more homes. They were specific, "no more room to build on the base, please provide us with homes that can cater for the sort of paraphernalia that a Mildenhall USAF employee may need to store, ie: a cupboard space, large bedrooms. They would also appreciate houses that would allow for them to integrate with the local people, thus this would create a sustainable community". Am I asking too much? Well, there's more to come. The USAF also told us that they currently have staff driving in excess of one hour drive time. This we all know is unnecessary. Some of the staff have to do 12-hour shifts and commanders are very concerned about tired people making these long journeys home on our roads. We have some of the most unproductive land in the country, perfect for building homes and we have a need. We have a fantastic airfield that would clearly be developed should the military use decline. Beck Row is a prime target for a large employer, but we must provide more quality homes. Back to the report. The Ombudsman admits this land is within the defined development area. Beck Row has been proposed by the local development framework for additional homes, but in any case Suffolk County environment strategy is very clear: an important way of reducing traffic is to encourage people to live near their place of work. Well, amazing, isn't it, with this particular development, we can get people to live near their place of work, play, hospital, doctors and entertainment, plus we can reduce the number of traffic accidents which have resulted in some horrific deaths, by decent people making journeys they did not need to make. We now have 400 homes 20 miles from the base, that makes about five million miles a year. How did that happen? Even a fool should have questioned that plan. Bring back democracy.

Newmarket reduces the need for plastic

Sir, On behalf of the ReNew campaign group, I would like to say a huge thank you to all the residents of Newmarket who supported our campaign to reduce the number of plastic carrier bags used in the town. It was so popular that we ran out of bags by 1pm and we will ensure that it doesn't happen on May 1, our next no plastic carrier bag day. We were very pleased to see so many shoppers happy to sign our pledge asking them to use less plastic carrier bags and to try and take their own bags shopping. We will send the pledges to 10 Downing Street, telling them of Newmarket's support for reducing plastic carrier bags. It was also good that many traders supported the day by either giving out their own free bags or asking their customers not to take an unnecessary bag. We have two more campaign days, May 1 and

June 1, when again we will be asking shoppers to reuse their own bags, as well as us giving out free black fabric shopping bags.

This time, we will reward all those shoppers who we see with their own shopping bag. They will be entered into a free prize draw, with the possibility of winning one of several small prizes that we hope local traders will donate.

Please don't forget that there are many ways you can support this campaign. If you have spare some time on May 1, please contact Erika Jensen at Newmarket Town Council on 01638 667227. Also, if you don't need to use those little plastic bags in the fruit and veg departments, put the goods loose. And finally, take your own bag shopping.

Residents are 'fobbed off' with £150 payout

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

RESIDENTS who protested against "horror" flats built behind their homes have been left bitterly disappointed that the Local Government Ombudsman turned down their complaint.

But the Ombudsman told Forest Heath District Council to pay £150 each to three of the people living in Bill Rickaby Drive, Newmarket, who complained that they did not have the chance to object to the flats at the planning stage.

Councillor Warwick Hirst, former mayor of Newmarket who supported the residents, said: "This doesn't give me any confidence in the Ombudsman scheme. This has had a huge impact on people's lives and it's just dismissed in a letter."

The Ombudsman's ruling was made at the end of last year, but details have only just emerged after the publication of a report in which he found the district council guilty of maladministration over a planning application submitted by a councillor's son for houses to be built at Beck Row, near Mildenhall.

Christine Beard, of Bill Rickaby Drive, said: "It's disgusting and the £150 was just an insult."

"We should have been told that the plans had been changed so that the flats were built where we thought there was going to be a bungalow. It should have been easier for a layman to understand."

"In the end we just gave up because we were banging our heads against a wall and nothing was going to change."

Mrs Beard previously described the flats as looking like the Bates Motel in the classic horror film Psycho.

Richard Dawson, a neighbour in Bill Rickaby Drive, said: "We feel we were just fobbed off."

James Park, an investigator for the Ombudsman, said, in a letter to residents, that he understood their concerns and it was clear that there had been an impact on them.

He added: "However, while I agree that there has been fault by the council in not readvertising the amended application, I do not believe it is possible to conclude that without this fault a different decision would have been reached.

"Because of this I continue to feel that a payment of £150 is a reasonable way of recognising the uncertainty you have been caused and the unnecessary time and trouble you have been put to."

A Forest Heath District Council spokeswoman said: "This was not a formal Ombudsman decision and so was not publicised in the same way. This Ombudsman report was confidential and we respect that confidentiality."

"Residents can view committee reports on the compliments and complaints received by the council on our website and the Ombudsman also publishes an annual website report about complaints received."

Bad motorists caught in Suffolk police clamp-down

MORE than 1,200 motorists have been caught using mobile phones, speeding or not wearing seat belts in two months.

The clamp-down in Suffolk has been carried out by the county's police since the start of this year.

Latest figures show that in January 241 fixed penalty tickets were issued for speeding, with 121 given for not wearing a seat belt and 126 for using mobile phones while driving.

In February 200 speeding tickets were given, 410 were given for not wearing a seat belt and 156 for using a mobile phone while driving.

Chief Insp Martin Barnes-Smith said: "I'd like to put out a clear message: break the law on Suffolk's roads and you will be caught."

The police were unable to supply figures for drink-driving arrests due to a change in computer software.

Environmental crime earns a fine

FIXED penalty fines are being issued by a council for "environmental crimes".

Forest Heath District Council officers have been given the power to issue fines which can range from £80 up to £500.

Offences such as litter, graffiti and fly-posting attract on-the-spot fines of £80. There is a £100 fine for nuisance parking and £200 for abandoning a vehicle.

There is also a fine of £500 for noise from licensed premises such as a pub or night club.

Solar energy scheme helps school reduce carbon emission footprint

SOLAR energy will help to provide power for a primary school which has been chosen to benefit from a national £1 million scheme.

Ditton Lodge First School in Newmarket is to have free solar panels installed through The Co-operative Group's national Green Energy for Schools scheme.

It is one of 100 schools to benefit from the panels which will reduce the school's carbon footprint.

The panels, worth more than £20,000 to each school, are half funded through the Co-operative's scheme with match funding from the Government's Low Carbon Building Programme (LCBP). Solarcentury, a solar energy company, will erect the panels. A monitor screen in the school will display how much energy the panels are generating and how much carbon dioxide they have saved to date.

Schools will also be able to access their energy data on the internet, along with educational materials which teachers can download for use in the classroom.

Helen Wright, manager of the Co-operative food store in Elizabeth Parade, Newmarket, said: "As a community retailer with strong green credentials, it is great that we are helping our local school in this way."

"As well as reducing the school's carbon footprint and cutting its electricity bills, the rooftop solar panels will remind the whole community of the urgent need to tackle climate change."

Angela Finn, head teacher, said: "It is fantastic to be among the 100 schools chosen to receive free solar panels through this generous Co-operative initiative. Schools have a vital role to play in educating the next generation about climate change and using this renewable energy technology to power our own premises will really help us to bring that message home to pupils, parents and staff."

Work may start on shops this summer

WORK on a £4 million extension to a Newmarket shopping centre could start this summer.

But formal planning permission is only now being issued – five months after the controversial scheme was approved by councillors.

A new shop is due to be built on half the Market Square to extend the town's Guineas shopping centre.

The scheme was given approval, on the casting vote of the chairman of Forest Heath District Council's planning committee, at the beginning of November.

But Centenary Investments, owners of the centre who are planning the extension, were only this week expecting to receive a formal approval letter from the council.

The delay has followed extended talks to secure a legal agreement in which Centenary

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

will pay for a feasibility study to look into the possible pedestrianisation of Wellington Street on one side of the Market Square.

Newmarket Town Council will get £15,000 to carry out a study. But the council has said it does not have the staff to do the work and has contracted Suffolk County Council to carry it out.

Linda Black, a director of Centenary, said the company had originally hoped to start work on the extension at the beginning of this year.

But the original plans had to be modified after local objections.

The company had planned to build on the whole of the Market Square, but the scheme which has been approved involves building a new shop unit of nearly 1,500 sq metres on half the square next to the town's Marks and Spencer store. It will include six "kiosk" shops looking out onto the square.

Protesters continue to oppose the scheme and one branded it "the rape of Newmarket".

Ms Black said the identity of the retailer expected to take on the main unit could not be revealed at this stage.

She said a formal letter of approval from the council was expected this week.

Building work could start this summer – subject to an archaeological survey of the site which would have to be carried out before building gets under way.

If all goes to plan, the new shops should be built in a year.

The town's twice-weekly market will continue during the building work, although some stalls may be moved to the opposite end of the centre next to the bus station.

Migration art goes on show

SEVEN local artists have been showcasing their work this week at the launch of a new exhibition in Newmarket.

The exhibition at the Palace House Mews features work on the theme of migration and includes pieces from Jean Page, Mike Ashley, Helen Ripley, Jo Hincks, Pam Winbolt, Margaret Wyllie and Stuart Green.

Lizzi Cocker, arts and heritage officer for Forest Heath District Council, which is supporting the event, said: "All the artists have interpreted the theme of migration in individual ways using a variety of media.

Media include paintings, sculptures, visual projections onto a screen, textiles.

"It is all linked to people moving from one place to another because many people in our local vicinity are migrants and are bringing their cultures with them. It's a way of highlighting what migration is all about. It explores unexpected connections."

The exhibition will be open Monday to Friday from 10am to 5pm and Saturday 10am to 4pm until April 19.

Riding high on police bicycle funding boost

POLICE will be able to patrol their "patch" more efficiently after they received funding for two bicycles.

Members of the Mildenhall Safer Neighbourhood Team have been boosted by the donation from the parish council.

The bikes will mainly be used by the Police Community Support Officers (PCSOs) for patrols around housing and industrial estates in the town.

Sergeant Peter Ferrie, who heads the Safer Neighbourhood Team, said: "Safer Neighbourhood Teams are all about getting out into the communities we serve.

"The bikes will enable my team to do this in a more visible, responsive way, and we are very grateful for the parish council's contribution."

Cash gift helps charity Lifeline continue at night

A CHARITY for people with mental health problems has been able to continue its evening telephone helpline thanks to a donation of £500.

The cash was given to the Cambridge-based Lifecraft Charity by Yorkshire Building Society's Newmarket branch.

Lifecraft provides an evening telephone helpline known as Lifeline, taking calls from local people with mental health needs who are in distress or need information.

The charity takes over 3,000 calls each year from across Cambridgeshire where volunteers provide listening support and advice about mental health issues.

The donation is from the Society's Charitable Foundation and will provide an on-line computer for Lifecraft volunteers to use when taking calls.

Bev Sedley, a Lifecraft Trustee said: "Having access to a computer is essential for us to help callers who are often distressed and require comprehensive and up to date information. We are very grateful to the Yorkshire Building Society Charitable Foundation for its generous donation which will make a significant difference to the service we provide in the local area."

Stephen Lye, manager at the Newmarket High Street branch said: "Providing the Lifeline volunteers with access to an additional computer will help them provide accurate and timely information to callers."

Lifeline takes calls from 7pm to 11pm every night of the year on 0808 8082121. Lifecraft can be contacted at www.lifecraft.org.uk or (01223) 566957.

Debt-free trust after £30m paid

BY John Goode

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

THE health trust in charge of Newmarket Hospital has declared itself debt-free after paying off more than £30 million.

Suffolk Primary Care Trust paid off £18.9 million in 2007-8 and paid back the last £12 million of "historic" debt this month.

It means it is now free to invest around £17 million in extending and improving services in 2008/09.

These will include developing education programmes for people with long-term conditions, improving access to community health services and increasing "talking therapies" to help people with depression and anxiety.

The PCT is also planning to develop facilities at Newmarket Hospital and will be bidding for up to £15 million in Government funding.

Julian Herbert, Suffolk PCT's director of performance, said: "We have worked hard to reduce the debt, looking at every area of expenditure within the PCT. Suffolk PCT staff and those across the NHS organisations have put in an incredible effort, in what have been difficult times, to achieve this.

"Our improved efficiency on spending was helped by using generic drugs instead of expensive branded ones, helping people avoid long-term stays in hospital and merging PCTs."

Alastair McWhirter, chairman of Suffolk PCT, said: "I am delighted with the progress the PCT has made since we were established in October 2006.

"The financial challenge was huge but through the commitment and hard work of PCT staff and our partners in the NHS we have put the debt behind us and seen improvements in performance. We can start the new financial year with confidence and in a strong position from which to deliver further improvements."

Suffolk PCT was formed by a merger of four PCTs, Ipswich, Suffolk Central, Suffolk Coastal and Suffolk West, which formerly ran Newmarket Hospital. A debt of £35.4 million was handed on to the Suffolk PCT.

Big 'Leap' towards higher learning

A NEW centre has opened in Mildenhall to give information about further and higher education.

The Leap (Learning and Enterprise Access Point) centre also offers courses in basic computer skills, first aid and modern languages.

The project is backed by West

Suffolk College, Bury St Edmunds University Campus Suffolk and the Learning and Skills Council. It cost £90,000 to develop.

Cllr Bill Bishop, chairman of Forest Heath District Council, carried out the official opening of the centre, in the town's Market Place.

Pick-up truck goes missing

A PICK-up truck has been stolen from behind the owner's house. The red Nissan pick-up, registration DIG 2755, had been behind the house in Wingfield Road, Lakenheath, while the owner was carrying out repairs. It disappeared on Wednesday April 2. A number of broken down vehicles have been stolen from the Newmarket and Mildenhall areas since the start of the year. Anyone with information should call Suffolk police on (01284) 774100.

Here's cheers to foreign flavours at beer festival

BEER fans have been able to sample a range of strangely named brews from across the world at a pub's own festival. Yo-Ho Tokyo Black, from Japan, and Stone California Double IPA are among the more unusual beers on offer at Newmarket's Golden Lion pub until Monday, April 14. The beers have been exclusively brewed in England for the festival at the High Street pub, part of the Wetherspoon's chain, and have not before been sold in UK pubs. Customers were able to try any three of the real ales on offer in special third-of-a-pint glasses for the price of a pint. Beers from Poland, Belgium and Germany are also on offer with UK-brewed beers including Caledonian Chocolate Drop, Batemans Spring Goddess, Wychwood Mad Hatter, Highgate Highland Whisky Ale, Harviestoun Old Engine Oil, Roosters Boneshaker IPA, Weltons Old Cocky and Mauldons Black Adder. Chuck Reynolds, the manager, said: "The beer festival has an international flavour and gives people the opportunity to enjoy a superb selection of beers not normally available in the area."

New plan for Sainsbury's in Mildenhall

PLANS for a new multi-million pound supermarket in Mildenhall have been submitted to Forest Heath District Council.

Sainsbury's has submitted plans for a new 20,000 sq ft foodstore on Recreation Way in Mildenhall which could be completed by summer 2010.

Initially the scheme was discussed with residents in 2006, but after difficulties in finding a new site for Mildenhall Town Football Club, the supermarket giant had to go back to the drawing board and find an alternative space for car parking.

The chain already has one store in the town, based at St Andrew's Street, which would close once the new store was completed.

Robert Oxley, Sainsbury's regional development executive, said: "The response to our last newsletter shows that a vast majority of local people want the proposed new Sainsbury's in Mildenhall and our commitment to the town remains as strong as ever.

"Sainsbury's plans for a larger store will attract

BY Laura Jean Morris
Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

more people back into Mildenhall to shop, which will help other businesses in the town centre and as time goes on, help attract new shops."

The revised plans, which have been drawn up after discussions with Mildenhall Parish Council, Forest Heath District Council and Mildenhall Social Club, have resulted in changes to both the store's design and the car parking arrangements.

New, purpose-built facilities will be provided for Mildenhall Social Club close to its current site in the town centre, including new bespoke clubhouses with bar and function rooms, as well as a new eight-rink bowling green.

Mildenhall Town Football Club, which had hoped to move as part of the initial proposals, has so far been unable to find a suitable location for its new ground. With the football club remaining where it is, Sainsbury's is now proposing additional temporary car parking for 212 cars to the south of the store by the Jubilee centre.

Action to take away signs

ACTION could be taken to remove a "proliferation" of advertising boards in Newmarket High Street.

The town council may take on responsibility for dealing with the issue from Suffolk County Council as highway and footpath authority and Forest Heath District Council as planning authority.

Cllr Jane Bailey, who chairs the council's development and planning committee, said the boards caused obstruction of the footpath and a danger to pedestrians, particularly mums with push-chairs and the disabled.

"Who is responsible if someone is injured?" she asked.

She said the council in Sudbury currently made a charge to businesses for taking away "A boards" which obstructed the pavement.

"I propose the town council writes to the county council and Forest Heath requesting some sort of delegated powers," she said.

Isabelle Barrett, town clerk, said the town council could get powers to deal with the problem through the Cleaner Neighbourhoods Act.

STD rates high

HIGH rates of sexually transmitted diseases are prevalent in East Anglians under 16s, figures show. The Liberal Democrats obtained parliamentary answers showing the number of teens suffering from chlamydia in the region rose from 77 in 2002 to 89 in 2006, a total of 467 diagnoses over the five-year period.

There was also a high rate of genital warts among the under-16s, with 43 cases in 2002, 34 in 2003, 57 in 2004, 46 in 2005 and 49 in 2006.

Genital herpes figures are seven for 2002, 10 for 2003; 10 for 2004; 19 for 2005; and 14 for 2006.

There were no diagnoses of syphilis, and gonorrhoea declined from 14 cases in 2002 to nine in 2006.

Plea on care

CAMBRIDGESHIRE Liberal Democrats have made a plea to the NHS at the start of the new financial year.

Councillor Geoff Heathcock, Lib Dem spokesman for health on Cambridgeshire County Council, called for fewer targets and more focus on care. Coun Heathcock said: "Both the patient and the health practitioner are sick to the back teeth of more paper, more target-setting and not nearly enough attention to frontline care being delivered.

"We need more Florence Nightingales and many fewer pin-striped suits chasing targets."

Hospital food on the cheap

BY John Morgan

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

NHS HOSPITALS in the region are spending as little as £2.37 a day on feeding their patients.

Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge spends £3.48 a day, but Hinchingbrooke Hospital in Huntingdon spends a daily average of £2.37 on each patient, which includes all food and beverages.

Both hospitals said the costs could not be broken down to give a cost per meal. But divided by three meals a day, the totals give an average of 79p per meal for Hinchingbrooke and £1.16 for Addenbrooke's.

School lunch meals in Cambridgeshire on average cost £1.90 per head – of which 60p is paid by Cambridgeshire County Council and the rest by pupils.

Prison meals cost £1 each on average – with £3 per prisoner per day allocated by the Government. Figures for hospitals in this region were obtained by our sister paper, the Cambridge News, under the Freedom of Information Act.

They have been described as "worrying" by Cllr Geoff Heathcock, Liberal Democrat spokesman for health on Cambridgeshire County Council.

Cllr Heathcock said: "In many cases elderly people are going to be in hospital because they are not being particularly well looked after at home and may have diet issues, 79p doesn't get you a loaf of bread.

"If that is the best we can do in a health service that has a budget of £110 billion a year then it is worrying."

The Addenbrooke's menu includes continental breakfast, as well as lunch options such as braised lamb's liver and onion and fortified creamed potatoes. Bread and butter pudding, smooth apricot and stewed plums in juice are among the choices for dessert.

Doctors' leaders have already called for celebrity chef Jamie Oliver to overhaul the menus for patients.

They claim much of the food served in hospitals is so inedible or meagre that it leaves patients under-nourished and depressed, making their recovery slower.

Speaking in 2005, Dr Simon Eccles, chairman of the British Medical Association's junior doctors committee, said patients should start complaining about bad food after a survey revealed about 17 million meals a year are thrown away untouched.

The Department of Health tried to use celebrity chef Loyd Grossman to head a team of chefs to revitalise hospital meals in 2000, but the initiative failed because it was too expensive for NHS trusts to implement.

Cllr Heathcock said of the difference in spending between Hinchingbrooke and ■ SLIM FIGURES . . . hospitals spend as little as 79p on patients' meals.

Addenbrooke's: "It is almost a postcode lottery for hospital food, which cannot be right."

A spokeswoman for Hinchingbrooke said: "A comprehensive menu is available. "It has been developed to meet the nutritional needs of a wide group of patients.

"A special children's menu has also been jointly designed by patients, parents, nurses and dieticians."

The spokeswoman added that regular audits monitored temperature, delivery, taste and flavour.

The most recent patient questionnaire on food showed a satisfaction level of 86 per cent, she said.

Carin Charlton, PFI and Hotel Services Manager at Addenbrooke's, said: "We are continuously reviewing the service we are providing.

"We are always looking at ways to improve our service to our patients."

A revamp for summer

Tharp Arms has refreshing ambience

■ LOOKING GOOD . . . The Tharp Arms has been serving happy drinkers since 1704.

A PUB known for its traditional atmosphere and friendly welcome has been serving happy drinkers in the village of Chippenham since 1704.

Located on the High Street the small, traditional pub is run by husband and wife team Mark and Alison Daniels and last summer the couple carried out a complete refurbishment to the village favourite.

The pub now has a completely new kitchen and the entire pub has been redecorated with new flooring through out.

Food is served seven days a week at The Tharp Arms. Mark says: "Alison is the chef here and most of the food is homemade. We serve traditional pub fare such as homemade chilli and traditional roast dinner on Sunday."

The Sunday roast is served from 12pm-2.30pm priced £7.95 for adults and £4.95 for children. The pub has a comfortable dining area and food is also served in the bar and lounge areas.

The pub is proud of its selection of real ales and has a wine list as well as serving hot drinks. Families are very welcome at The Tharp Arms and the pub has an extensive beer garden to the rear of the pub.

Every Thursday night customers can enjoy a pizza and a pint for just £7.

The pub is open Monday 12pm-3pm and 5.30pm-11pm, Tuesday-Thursday 11.30am-3pm and 5.30pm-11pm, Friday 11.30am-3pm and 5pm-1pm, Saturday 11.30am-11pm, Sunday 12pm-3.30pm and 7pm-10.30pm.

Food is served Monday to Friday 12pm-2pm and 6pm-9pm, Saturday 12pm-3pm and 6pm-9pm and Sunday 12pm-2.30pm.

For more information call the pub on (01638) 720234 or drop into the pub at 46 High Street, Chippenham.

Second win for council

CAMBRIDGESHIRE County Council has gained a second Investors in People Award.

The award tells organisations how good they are and where they can improve. The council concentrated on leadership and management; recruitment, and retention and capacity. Cllr John Reynolds, cabinet member for corporate services, said: "As the largest single employer within Cambridgeshire I and other members of the county council recognise that we can only deliver high quality services by having a highly skilled and talented workforce."

Keep safe in summer

CHIEF Constable Julie Spence has urged residents not to suffer a summer of discontent.

Mrs Spence has made the call in a bid to prevent burglaries and car thefts.

Recession may hit plans for new homes, councillor warns

■ RECESSION FEAR . . . Cllr Daphne Spink, stepping down after a quarter of a century dealing with housing issues.

Picture: David Johnson 475397.

THOUSANDS of new homes in Cambridgeshire could be delayed if the county slips into recession.

The grim warning has been spelled out by Daphne Spink, who is stepping down after more than a quarter of a century as one of the leading lights on South Cambridgeshire District Council.

Cllr Spink, on the council since 1982, has spent much of that time overseeing housing issues. She was involved in the planning process for Cambourne in the early 1990s, and has recently taken part in discussions about the building of Northstowe, the new settlement planned for the edge of Cambridge.

Up to 10,000 homes could be built there, but Cllr Spink said she feared construction will be held up if the economy dips.

She said: "In my view a recession is coming, and that is very worrying."

"When the council first began talking about the development of Cambourne, there was a recession on

BY Chirs Elliott

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

then, and as a result of it the start of construction was delayed by four years.

"The recession put a blight on the whole thing. Builders were anxious about their finances, and didn't want to spend until the economic situation improved. They felt they would not be able to sell the houses if they built them then."

"I feel a similar situation could arise with Northstowe, and of course that would be very serious. We need more houses. I hope very much the situation does not arise, but the signs are there."

Outline planning applications for Northstowe were submitted to the council by the new town's joint promoters, English Partnerships and Gallagher. The plans propose about 9,500 new homes – with a town centre, employment areas and schools, creating a community of up to 24,000 people.

A joint committee of councillors from South Cambridgeshire and Cambridgeshire County Council will scrutinise the applications.

The developers hope planning permission will be granted by the end of 2008. Work could then start within a few months, with the first houses built in the summer of 2009.

Cllr Spink said: "There is a big demand for more homes, and the Government keeps setting targets for us, but they too are beyond our control. Exactly how many houses are built depends on the builders."

She said Northstowe would "inevitably" have a major impact on neighbouring villages.

"It's no good saying a big settlement like Cambourne or Northstowe won't impinge on people nearby. It does. We used to shop in St Neots. Now we shop in Morrisons."

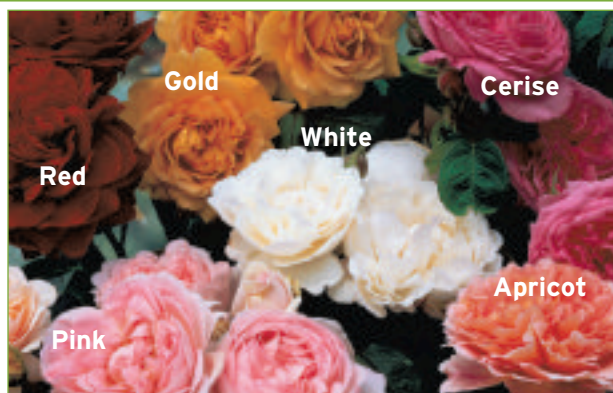

"When the sports centre opens in Cambourne, people from the villages will go there to use it."

"The important thing is to do whatever we can to protect neighbouring villages from bad effects, like increased traffic."

Stable talk

In our weekly column, reporter JOHN GOODE takes a look behind the racing scene to bring you news from in and around the stables.

Clare romps home to win £50,000 top race prize

AN accountant from Newmarket stormed to victory at Aintree after winning a contest to become a jockey.

Clare Twemlow, 29, managed to produce a smile 100 yards from the line as her horse, Zabeel Palace, won the John Smith's People's Race on Saturday.

She was one of the 10 novice horse riders picked from thousands of contestants hoping to race at the Liverpool racecourse on Grand National Day.

Clare's victory means she has bagged £55,000 for her chosen charity, Direct Action Africa, which helps orphans and Aids victims.

Clare, who works for Atlantic Pharmaceuticals in Cambridge, said: "Seeing 70,000 people in those huge stands was amazing. "I knew there would also be six million people watching the race on TV too, so I had some serious nerves.

"My horse was jumping about in the parade ring, but when I asked him to pick up at the end of the race, I knew he was going to win."

Pupils set to reunite

A REUNION for former pupils who left St Benedict's School, Bury St Edmunds, 30 years ago can take part as planned later this year.

A number of former pupils are from the Newmarket area. The reunion will be held at the Cannon pub and restaurant in Bury St Edmunds on August 30.

Reunited for charity gig

THE latest in the Ciara Fest series of gigs comes to the Portland Arms in Cambridge on Saturday. The night will see the one-off reformation of much-loved Cambridge band The Low Country as well as individual sets by The Low Country alumni Emily Barker, backed by her band The Red Clay Halo, and Rob Jackson, who has also played with The Broken Family Band and Boo Hewerdine.

There will also be music from folk collective The Singing Loins and Ed Wenn and John Ruscoe, formerly of The Stupids and Sink. It is the 11th Ciara Fest event and as ever it will be raising money for the Premrose Charity, which supports the Rosie Maternity Unit at Addenbrooke's Hospital and its work caring for premature babies. Doors open at 7pm. Tickets are £6 and can be booked at www.wegottickets.com/event/27711

Island tale

THE pirates will be boarding the stage at the Guildhall in Cambridge this weekend for a production of Treasure Island. The Anglia Theatre Society has previously put on family-friendly shows and is continuing in the same vein with Robert Louis Stephenson's adventure yarn. Shows are on at 7.30pm on Saturday and 2.30pm on Sunday. Tickets are £7-£10. To book call (01223) 357851.

Bands get ready for city showdown

THE newly-revamped Cambridge Band Competition kicks off tonight for a five-week long, hard-fought musical battle. The competition has been held at The Junction in recent years but this year it has been relaunched and the four heats will be at The Graduate on Mitcham's Corner. The grand final on May 9 will be at the Corn Exchange for the first time in more than 20 years. The entries have been whittled down by the panel of judges to 16 bands and they will be battling it out for the top prize, which includes £500 cash, time in a recording studio, four hours of expert CD mastering time, a slot at The Graduate and another on the main stage at this summer's Big Day Out event on Parker's Piece, and a photo shoot. Tonight's heat will feature The Beautiful Sleazy, Common Courtney, Thudbox and Filthtones. Heat two on April 17 will feature General Lee, Slay That Dog, Wolves Stole My Childhood and Federal Black 40. Heat three on April 24 will feature The Cougars, Keltrix, J Treole and The Winter Kings. The final heat on May 1 will include Flick 66, The Ridley Bury Experience, This Is My Honesty and Yo Yo Yo! Litvinenko. The judge's favourite band from each heat, plus the band with the most audience votes from across the heats will go through to the grand final.

Musical soul mates share a love of folk

By Nik Shelton

WHEN folk singer/songwriter Kathryn Williams first encountered Neill MacColl she had every reason to be daunted.

As two of the most respected performers on the UK acoustic scene they were paired together at the Daughters of Albion concert at the Barbican, part of last year's Folk Britannia series, to play the song The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face.

Although made famous by Roberta Flack, the song was in fact written by Neill's father, folk legend Ewan MacColl, for his mother Peggy Seeger — a leading light in the folk revival in New York in the 1960s, alongside her brothers Mike and Pete. "I think he's heard it a million times," says Kathryn. "And most people who want to do it are people who want to show off with their voice and be quite histrionic. I don't sing like that and he said it sounded more like someone whispering in a lover's ear." "I wasn't nervous but I was a bit

■ COLLABORATORS . . . Neill MacColl and Kathryn Williams.

apprehensive about it because I know how badly it can be done," chips in Neill. "A few people have sung it nicely but she just sings it better than anyone else I've ever heard. I think Roberta Flack's version is really lovely, I just don't know why it takes five and a half minutes to get to the end of it." The pair bonded over the song and decided to collaborate on more music. Very quickly they realised they made a great team and have now released the album Two, which features a series of lilting, ethereal ballads. For Neill, Kathryn's understated style matched his own to a tee and he found that writing with someone else could be a creative sharing experience rather than an ego-struggle. "You realise it within seconds," he says. "We played a few of her songs and a few other songs and it was just immediate, we just knew we shared the same musical sensibility. I've done a few musical collaborations, but never with anyone who gives as much as she does." Kathryn Williams and Neill MacColl play The Junction in Cambridge next Tuesday. Tickets are £15. Call (01223) 511511.

Keeping a low profile will help you work toward career goals. If you've always wanted to work in a glamorous industry, now is the time to shift gears. Put together a portfolio of your creative work. Send CVs to companies that have always appealed to you.

You could get a big boost from an expert who is willing to share their knowledge with you so be sure to listen more than talk when dealing with this person. Spending more time at home will be a welcome change of pace at the end of the week.

Venturing into unknown territory will be good for you. If you're asked to take a class or learn a new skill, accept immediately. This decision could open exciting new doors. Don't assume a colleague will follow through on a promise.

Your powers of persuasion are red hot, so why not use them? A colleague or neighbour could ask for help or advice, giving you a chance to mould events to your own liking. Don't pretend to know more than you do about an obscure subject.

You'll be very busy at work, which is just the way you like it. It's possible you will be even more productive if you work from home. Ask your boss if you can swing such an arrangement, as it will help you focus on the tasks at hand.

Your creative juices will flow like a mighty river, attracting plenty of romantic attention. You've got your eye on an idealistic dreamer who has a gift with words. If you're already in a relationship, pen a love letter to your partner.

This is the final week in a profitable month-long cycle so be sure to make the most of it. Working for a hospital, university or government agency could put extra cash in your pocket. It may not be wise to give a friend a generous loan.

Brass men turn to the stars for a playlist

RESPECTED Cambridge brass ensemble Prime Brass will be blasting off into outer space for a concert at the Arts Theatre in Cambridge on Sunday. They have chosen space as the theme of their latest family concert, which will be a little more light-hearted than some other concerts on the ensemble's busy schedule. The group has performed across the county, from King's College Chapel to Ely Cathedral, in recent years and performed in Prague two years ago alongside the Cambridge Philharmonic Orchestra. Coming up with the programme for this weekend's concert proved a challenge at first but they soon got some inspiration by looking to the stars. "We've managed to scour almost every bit of space related music you can imagine," says tuba player Chris Lawrence. "There's the music from 2001: A Space Odyssey, which is from Richard Strauss's Also Sprach Zarathustra, Claude Debussy's piece Claire de Lune, which means 'moonlight', and Mozart wrote a series of variations on Twinkle Twinkle Little Star. Then we'll be doing Moon River, Fly Me to the Moon, there will be references to David Bowie's Space Oddity, the Thunderbirds' theme tune, Star Wars and then back to the classical composers with Holst's The Planets." The ensemble have been performing together for 18 years and their number includes 10 musicians from all walks of life, including estate agents, college bursars and music teachers. "Each of the trumpet players double on a different instrument – a piccolo trumpet or a flugelhorn," says Chris. "I've also got an instrument called a serpent and also a helicon, which is a bit like a sousaphone – you climb inside it and it wraps around you. "My wife thinks it's an obsession but she plays the violin so she can't complain. I've been playing the tuba since I was 11 and now my two kids both play the trumpet – luckily we live in a detached house." Prime Brass in Space is on stage at 2pm and 5pm. Tickets are £8-£10. WEEKLY NEWS

By Nik Shelton

Modern family home

An opportunity to purchase a chain free modern three bedroom end of terrace family home, situated in the well regarded residential area of Heasman Close, Newmarket.

The property is well positioned at the end of a small cul-de-sac over looking a green area.

In our opinion this delightful property has been very tastefully decorated to a neutral pallet which should be pleasing to many potential buyers. Heasman Close is also well located to many local facilities, such as the Post Office, butchers, corner shop, leisure complex and schools.

To fully appreciate the accommodation that is provided we would highly recommend an internal viewing. The property benefits from the following accommodation.

The accommodation with appreciate room sizes comprises of: an entrance hall with doorway to the cloakroom/WC and a 14'7" x 12'7" Sitting room, which has a double glazed window to the front aspect, and French doors leading into a separate dining room. The dining room benefits from having French doors that lead onto an enclosed rear garden, and doorway through to a fitted kitchen. The kitchen offers a range of eye and base level units with roll top work surfaces over and part ceramic tiled walls, incorporating a stainless steel sink unit and space for dishwasher and washing machine. Fitted electric oven, gas hob and electric extractor fan. A double glazed window to rear aspect and part glazed door leading to the rear garden.

The first floor accommodation benefits from a master bedroom with an en suite shower room, two further bedrooms and a family bathroom/WC. Off road parking for two vehicles is provided via allocated parking spaces which is situated to the front of the property.

To arrange a viewing call Your Move Lattimores on 01638 660303 or email us at newmarket@your-move.co.uk.

NEWMARKET WEEKLY NEWS

French twist to Germanic C5

COPYING German cars in an effort to suggest quality seems to be the in thing at the moment.

A couple of weeks ago Chrysler did it with the 300C. Now Citroën has taken up the idea with a TV ad which actually proclaims "It is a German car - made in France!"

It seems that if you sell largely to business users and you want to pinch some of the sales enjoyed by BMW, Mercedes and Audi, you turn the interior black, sober up the trim and limber up your "For you ze vor is over" accent.

Citroën has taken on board the fact that a lot of user-choosers regard floaty hydraulic self-levelling suspension as outrageously dilettante and avant-garde. So on the new C5 - a particularly handsome mid-sized business/family car - there are now two suspensions.

Opt for the manual version of each model and you will get coil springs and orthodoxy. Go for the automatic version and with it will come very fluid hydraulic suspension which is about as French as Monet's jardin at Giverny.

The rest of the package comes

Citroën has saloon flair

down to how much either you, or your fleet manager, is prepared to spend. On the upper trim levels you can have both front and rear seats that offer massage, a lane departure warning system and no less than nine airbags should it go horribly wrong on the way to a ditch.

Citroën's sidestep towards Teutonic efficiency can, by the very nature of things, only go so far. On the rather elegant dashboard there are twirly shapes in chrome and a bit of boudoir business around the door handles, neither of which is from the Bauhaus school of design. You cannot submerge Gallic flair completely and this is certainly echoed in the sheer silence and comfort the new C5 has to offer - plus its ability to do a bit of serious wafting on an empty motorway.

Both petrol and diesel engines are on offer, including a large V6 diesel, but the highest sales are likely to be with the 2.0-litre diesel. I found this provides excellent power for getting to meetings fast plus with a reasonable degree of economy. Surprisingly the 2.0-litre petrol version has a very sporty note which jars with the German limousine image.

■ THE CITROËN C5... improved looks have taken the fight to German rivals.

As with other Citroëns the dashboard tends towards complication. Passenger and cargo space is generous while the do-everything radio system "offers an acoustically enhanced audio experience".

BASICALLY...

A C-Class car with a huge range of choice as to engines, trim and suspension. Versions with orthodox suspension are designed to remove that look of fear from the eyes of fleet managers who just want a quiet life. But if you fancy slobbering along letting it all hang out, this is definitely for you.

HOG chapter in Great Ormond Street hospital cash aid

HARLEY DAVIDSON riders who rode through London to raise money for Great Ormond Street Hospital (GOSH) handed over a cheque for £32,000 to the charity on Saturday week.

Members of the Fenlanders HOG (Harley Owners Group) chapter met at Black Bear Harley-Davidson in Newmarket and presented GOSH fundraiser Laura Sale with the hefty total, which will go towards funding a new department for childhood nutrition at the hospital - the first of its kind in Britain.

Chapter director Peter Lough made the handover, flanked by a large number of Fenlanders who had travelled up for the presentation, held during Black Bear's annual spring open day.

Lough said he was delighted with the efforts of every rider who took part in last September's "HOG Rides for GOSH" event. "The amount of bikes that went down to London was fantastic and the amount of work that went into the organisation of this event was huge - £32,000 was certainly a great result," he said.

Around 250 bikers from chapters across the country participated in the sponsored rideout. They were led by a police escort from Walthamstow Stadium across north London to a park close to the hospital grounds where they were greeted by young patients, their families and staff. The children then enjoyed a fun afternoon, being allowed to clamber aboard the Harley-Davidsons for photographs.

The idea for the event was thought up by prominent GOSH professor, Alan Lucas, who rides a Harley-Davidson and is a Black Bear customer. Supported by his fellow Fenlanders and Black Bear Harley-Davidson, he organised the first rideout in 2005 and in total the chapter has raised £80,000 for the world-famous children's hospital.

The new nutritional department will support research that will improve health care for children throughout the country by reducing the risk of obesity and heart disease with the aim of improving the health and well-being of future generations.

Lindsey Burke, community fundraising executive, Great Ormond Street Hospital Children's Charity said: "We are incredibly grateful to the Fenlanders Chapter and all the participants in the HOG Rides for GOSH event for their support. The monies raised through this event will benefit the Nutrition Fund at the hospital and will help to provide much-needed development into childhood nutrition and improve the standard of nutritional care of children in hospital and the wider community. We need to raise £50 million a year to keep Great Ormond Street Hospital at the forefront of paediatric healthcare and the HOG members' generous support is vital to our success."

Two models for the Auris range

TOYOTA is evolving the Auris to target the needs of its buyers and has added two new models to the line-up.

The SR follows the lead of the SR180 and offers the same looks and specification for less price. A "warm hatch" to complement its SR180 bigger brother, the SR enters a niche that is growing quickly and accounts for more than a third of family hatchback-sized UK car sales.

Powered by either a 1.6 VVT-I petrol or a 2.0 D-4D diesel engine, the mild sports hatch has lowered suspension, 17-inch alloy wheels and a

■ THE AURIS SR... high-spec warm hatch adds excellent value to the line-up.

■ THE AURIS TR... Toyota has added value.

body kit to make it stand out from the crowd.

The TR features a spec overhaul and now comes with: dual zone aircon, 16-inch alloys, leather steering wheel, front fog lamps, nine airbags, body coloured exterior trim and an improved stereo system. The cost of the extra equipment would come in at almost £1,500 but the price rise is just £690, which means more value.

Priced between £12,995 and £15,595 for the TR and £14,495 to £16,495 for the SR, the new Auris models are available now.

Foreign lorry drivers creating safety fears

FOREIGN lorry drivers are breaking UK safety laws and risking lives, with accident figures rocketing in the last five years, a television programme has said.

Killer Lorries: Tonight reported on concerns from police and transport bodies over an inability to properly sanction foreign drivers, contributing to a rise in accidents.

The show said foreign wagons are three times more likely to be involved in accidents than British trucks and highlighted figures showing that in the last five years, accidents involving lorries coming into Britain have risen by almost 50 per cent.

It says 1,366 people in 2006 were killed or injured on British roads in collisions with heavy goods vehicles from abroad – 44 killed and 1,322 injured.

The programme said 400,000 foreign lorries are on our roads each year – and drivers are under financial pressure from employers to keep moving.

Tonight said that foreign lorry drivers bringing goods into Britain are four times more likely than UK drivers to drive while tired.

The programme highlighted a lack of police powers to prosecute the owners of lorry companies on the continent – even when there is evidence that they know their drivers are working in the UK without taking rest breaks.

Chief Inspector Phil Hibbert of Kent Police told the programme they have considerable powers to sanction British lorry drivers on safety breaches. With foreign drivers powers are more limited, but police can delay their journey until they rest up or make vehicle repairs.

Hibbert said: "Certainly for companies that rely on their vehicles getting to locations at peak times and to lay those lorries up between 36 and 48 hours has a significant impact on their business.

"However, we would like to see an extra provision for us to be able to fine lorries at the roadside."

Each day at the Port of Dover, 6,000 foreign lorries drive into Britain carrying up to a quarter of a million tonnes of goods.

They are also faced with the added difficulty of driving a left-handed vehicle. On British roads these trucks have visibility blind spots that can hide a family saloon, according to Vehicle Operators Service Agency, VOSA.

Their vehicles are also more likely to be carrying dangerously heavy loads or be in poor condition, the ITV1 programme reported. And there is concern over a growing trade in Europe in forged HGV licences.

In July last year, 19-year-old Rachel Ward was killed while driving to meet her fiancé. A truck pushed her car down an embankment. It was a left-hand drive lorry from Holland and the driver said he hadn't seen her. The points the driver received cannot be placed on a foreign licence.

Freelander van goes on sale

FOLLOWING customer demand, Land Rover will introduce a commercial derivative to the Freelander 2 line-up. It will be showcased for the first time at the Commercial Vehicle Show at the NEC, Birmingham from April 15-17. The Freelander 2 Commercial will be available in "S" and "XS" versions. The spec will be as a standard Freelander 2 at the respective trim levels, without rear seats and side airbags but with a full-height solid bulkhead with mesh panel, floor support frame, floor panel with lashing points, fixed rear side glass, rubber loadspace mat, tail door and side window guards and rear cargo lighting.

The Freelander 2 Commercial goes on sale this month and will be priced from £20,775 on the road (as a commercial vehicle, it is VAT and Company Car Tax exempt).

To arrange a test drive or for more details call Marshall Land Rover or log on www.landrover.co.uk

It's such a Proud day for James in big win

UNDER-10

Newmarket 25 Swaffham 10

NEWMARKET put in an excellent display against hard-tackling opposition, breaking the deadlock with a try from Harry MacNaughton.

The Suffolk Motors-sponsored club added further tries from Sam Wade and Max McKrill and, although Swaffham replied with two tries quickly after the interval, McKrill killed off their hopes of a comeback and Owen Downing rounded off a fine backs move to seal victory.

Newmarket 30 Swaffham 15

THE second game of the series against Swaffham proved to be the under-10s' best of the season. They dominated every aspect of the game, Sam Christie, Aiden Curry and Thomas Kent winning every ruck and maul as well as controlling the scrums while the backs handling skills meant Swaffham struggled to get into the game.

Downing rounded off another flowing backs move to open the scoring and the lead was extended by Christie and McKrill, although a back injury to Ewan Bryson meant the half finished on a low for Newmarket. Kent was then forced off because of a hand injury but with replacement scrum-half James Proud organising his forwards and backs with authority, Oliver Vaughan and Curry set the seal on a fine win.

UNDER-13

Newmarket 12 Ipswich B 5

NEWMARKET acquitted themselves well against Ipswich's A team, despite losing 19-0, and carried that form into the second match against the B team. A series of good mauls led to Sam Hilary breaking off to score with Alex Kathro converting. Brad Pears and Cam Brooks put Alastair Kingdon into the corner to extend the lead, but although they dominated – Pears, Tom Fleet and Alex Parkinson all went close – they could not add to their score.

UNDER-14

Newmarket 58 Wisbech 7

JAKE Cronin scorched over for five tries as Newmarket's superior teamwork gave them the edge.

The advantage of always having a player in close support allowed them to dominate in the loose and they made Wisbech suffer. James Foreman, Jack Moffat and Murphy added further tries before man-of-the-match Tom Bircham scored the try of the game. Jo Curry took possession deep in Newmarket's 22 with prop Bircham setting up another ruck. Quick ball allowed them to move upfield where Moffat, who had made a lot of ground, off-loaded for the charging Bircham to score. Toby Mackrill completed the scoring with six conversions.

RED LODGE KARTING

Sharp Luke sees off Mortlock bid

■ HANDY ANDERSON . . . Luke Anderson on his way to victory in the Senior Rotax final.

DAVID Mortlock had to settle for second place in an exciting Senior Rotax final at the fourth round of the Red Lodge club's 2000 Kart Championship.

The Newmarket driver was pipped by Luke Anderson, from Bury St Edmunds, the duo outpacing the largest grid of the day. The sunshine and showers combined to cause problems for most of the 100-plus competitors – particularly with their tyre choice – but Scott Bugner excelled in the wet, winning the Junior TKM final.

George Morris was the most prolific driver of the day, though, winning all three heats, and the final, of the Honda Cadets.

Dan Zelos won the Comer Cadets final with Jamie Cooper and Ryan Hawes a very close second and third while the TKM Extremes produced some brilliant racing again with Mathew Prigmore winning the final.

Results. Honda Cadets: 1 George Morris, 2 Billy Martin, 3 Dean Woodward. Comer Cadets: 1 Dan Zelos, 2 Jamie Cooper, 3 Ryan Hawes. Mini Max: 1 Toby Reynolds, 2 Liam Ferguson, 3 Sam Jackson. Junior TKM: 1 Scott Bugner, 2 Thomas Snape, 3 Gordon Smith. Senior TKM: 1 Matthew Prigmore, 2 David Eaton, 3 Steven Hurrell. Senior TKM Heavy: 1 Ian Palmer, 2 Paul Wiggins, 3 Mark Copsey. Junior Rotax: 1 Ashley Dibden, 2 Layton Milson, 3 William Payne. Senior Rotax: 1 Luke Anderson, 2 David Mortlock, 3 Peter Green. Senior Rotax 177: 1 Toby Sinclair, 2 Tim Folkard, 3 Simon Hilton.

Tigers fury as Wortmann is hurt in smash

DANISH Under-21 star Casper Wortmann is facing up to the prospect of spending his first season in the UK on the sidelines after breaking his pelvis in a horrific smash at West Row on Sunday.

The 19-year-old was in only his fifth meeting for Mildenhall when he was caught up in a three-rider pile-up on the first bend of heat 13 against Birmingham. The match was abandoned with the visitors winning 42-32 and the result will stand.

The incident, which also caused Phil Morris to suffer fractured ribs and a punctured lung, occurred when visiting reserve Jack Hargreaves steered the rest of the field wide on the opening turn.

Fen Tigers team manager Laurence Rogers, who has visited Wortmann at Addenbrooke's Hospital, Cambridge, admitted he made his feelings known towards the Birmingham rider.

"There was some very hard techniques being deployed by Jack during the meeting," said Rogers.

"He had already taken out riders in three other races and was turning too late at the first corner. Jack is a good friend, but I had a some harsh words to say to him afterwards."

Mildenhall have secured the signature of Finnish Under-21 champion Jari Makinen and he will make his debut against Isle of Wight on Sunday. Tomas Suchanek guests in place of Robbie Kessler.

Rogers said: "He is recommended by Kaj Laukkanen and, at just 17 years old, has an excellent pedigree.

"We beat two Elite League clubs to sign him and he will be getting advice from Mikael Teurnberg, who rode for Mildenhall in 1992.

"Some people may think we are taking a further gamble on another untried foreigner, but I felt the opportunity was too good to miss.

"He is not a replacement for Grant Tregoning, who we hope will be in the UK next weekend, and, when he arrives, we will assess the team situation."

Mildenhall - Baseby 10 (6 rides), Graversen 8 (4), Laukkanen 7 (3), Evans 3+2 (5), Cockle 3 (3), Wortmann 1 (3).

Birmingham - Smart 9+2 (6), Morris 9+1 (4), Lyons 9 (3), Roynon 6+2 (4), Hargreaves 6+1 (4), Roberts 3 (3).

ROBERT Huff had to settle for two ninth-place finishes in the Mexican round of the World Touring Car Championship. The Newmarket-based racer was fourth fastest in qualifying, but was relegated five places on the grid because he was unable to start the engine of his Chevrolet Lacetti after weight checking following the session.

He said: "The battery voltage dropped mid-session. The team told me to come in and as I came in I was called to the weight scales and wasn't able to start the engine after their inspection."

And on the twisty Puebla track, where overtaking is almost impossible, Huff was unable to edge beyond his start position in either of the two races.

He was not helped when he was caught by another car as he made it off the grid in the opening race, in which team-mate Nicola Larini was runner-up to Seat driver Jordi Gene, with fellow Chevrolet racer Alain Menu eighth.

Huff said: "At the start of the first race I got side-swiped so hard by another car that it took a chunk of metal out of the wheel rim. After that, it was just a case of trying to stick to what we had."

A poor start in the second race again proved to be too much for Huff to overcome after being passed by defending champion Andy Priaux and BMW Germany driver Augusto Farfus. He said: "I managed to get back by both of them again on the following laps and just tried to get in the points."

"On this track it's virtually impossible to overtake unless the guy in front of you makes a mistake. There's so little grip." Seat's Tiago Monteiro took the win, with Huff's team-mate Menu seventh while Larini failed to finish after his right rear suspension was broken on lap 10 after being hit from behind.

Joggers head for marathon mission

NEWMARKET Joggers are sending one of their strongest line-ups to the London Marathon on Sunday.

Elite runners Ben Blowes and Robin Clifford will be hoping for a sub-three hour finish while Jim Beeton, in only his second marathon, is aiming to finish soon after them.

If the conditions are right Jim Withers, Keith Williams and Brian Munns are hoping their intensive training will pay off and they will finish no slower than 3hrs 15min.

Several of the women's team – which comprises Camilla Milbank, Dawn Laidlaw, Tracey Smith, Gemma Dawson, Mary Marsh and Carolyn Anderson – are competing over the distance for the first time and will be running for charity, as well as aiming to record a decent time. The fact that the Joggers have avoided any marathon-threatening injuries is down to Blowes, Williams and Jenny O'Callaghan sharing their experiences with the 'trainees', something which has been readily acknowledged by the club. ■ There are still seats available on the Joggers' London Marathon bus, which leaves Newmarket at 6am. Botti's not Coy when it comes to Raymi

WITH the last of the major National Hunt fixtures passed all eyes are now focused on the first Flat Classics – the Stan James 1000 and 2000 Guineas – in early May. But first, trainers who went into the winter harbouring Classic dreams will be seeking to test their hopefuls in one of the Guineas trials.

One such race is the Nell Gwyn over seven furlongs at Newmarket on Wednesday, and is the target for Marco Botti's Group Three winning filly Raymi Coya.

Botti (right) said: "She worked well the other day and it's the plan to go for a trial. It's important she has a race to see whether she's good enough for the Guineas. "However, if she wasn't ready – it's a difficult time of year to train fillies – I wouldn't mind sending her straight to the Guineas."

The daughter of Van Nistelrooy began last season by winning a maiden at Lingfield. She was then inconvenienced by the fast ground in a Conditions event at Haydock.

Racing by Peter Scargill

She bounced back with a third in the Listed EBF Dick Poole Fillies' Stakes at Salisbury before turning around Haydock form with the Queen's filly Step Softly to win the Group Three Oh So Sharp Stakes at Newmarket.

Botti is no stranger when it comes to training useful fillies. To date his best representatives alongside Raymi Coya include Listed winning Snow Gretel with fellow stakes-placed females Silver Mitzva, Penfection and Highway to Glory. However, Group Three Prestige Stakes winner Sesmen is the filly most people associate with the third-season trainer.

Sesmen was sixth in last year's French 1,000 Guineas, so how does the Italian's latest star match up?

"Sesmen had a lot of ability but was very temperamental. Raymi tries hard, is very genuine and can settle well," said Botti, adding, "I think she's better than Sesmen." One person certainly hoping for more from Raymi Coya is the filly's owner, Chelsea and Peru striker Claudio Pizarro.

Pizarro is a leading owner/breeder in Peru but this filly is his first representative in Europe, much to her trainer's delight. "He's a lucky owner, this is his first horse and she's a Group Three winner," said Botti. "It's great to have owners like him."

Pizarro, a fringe player at Chelsea this season, has used the time to expand his European bloodstock portfolio with the acquisition of a Key of Luck filly, Kiyari, from Doncaster and potentially more to come. For the time being, though, he will have to make do with the one runner and Botti has a traditional programme mapped out for her. "She has lots of options," said Botti. "She could go for the English or French Guineas depending on the opposition, she's also entered in the German Guineas, which is a Group Two, later in the year and then hopefully the Coronation Stakes at Royal Ascot."

FOOTBALL: JOCKEYS ROCK ROVERS TO KEEP ALIVE HOPES OF BEATING THE DROP

Bell in chime to boost Town bid

Haverhill Rovers 0 Newmarket 1

RIDGEONS LEAGUE, PREMIER DIVISION

STEVEN Bell struck the decisive goal as Newmarket stunned Haverhill at Hamlet Croft on Tuesday.

In a game of few chances, the Jockeys went ahead after 33 minutes when Bell's shot on the turn was palmed on to the bar by goalkeeper Jamie Smith and the ball bobbled into the net.

Rovers, who had a super 2-1 win at title-challengers Wroxham on Saturday, failed to make an impact, although Sam Green went close to equalising when his fierce volley from 15 yards was well saved by Matt Paynter.

Victory took Newmarket to third from bottom, two points clear of Ipswich Wanderers, who were due to play CRC last night but have other games in hand.

But with three to go down they are still well short of Swaffham and safety.

However, the Jockeys will be looking to continue their improved run when they take on Felixstowe & Walton at home on Saturday before a clash against FA Vase finalists Lowestoft at the Town Ground on Tuesday.

OWEN Paynter went close but could not help Mildenhall break the deadlock at Cambridge Regional College.

Paynter struck the bar with an early shot before having another effort hacked off the line as fourth-placed Mildenhall got on top in the first half.

Joint manager Tony Lyes said: "It was quite an entertaining game and was probably a fair result."

"We're just lacking that bit of cutting edge up front – we've only scored a couple of goals in the last four games."

Mildenhall face title-chasing Needham Market at home on Saturday.
